January 10, 2018

To the Members of the U.S. House of Representatives:

We, the more than 160 undersigned Indian tribal nations, tribal corporations, and tribal trade associations—collectively organized as the Coalition for Tribal Sovereignty—write in strong support of S. 140, which includes H.R. 986, the "Tribal Labor Sovereignty Act of 2017 (TLSA)," as a provision of the bill. TLSA would respect and promote tribal sovereignty by affirming the rights of tribal governmental employers to determine their own labor practices on their own lands.

Sponsored by Rep. Todd Rokita, TLSA passed the House in the 114th Congress with bipartisan support.

In 1935, the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) was enacted to ensure fair labor practices, but excluded federal, state and local governmental employers from its reach. Though the Act did not expressly treat Indian tribes as governmental employers, the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) respected the sovereign status of tribal governmental employers for close to seventy years before abruptly abandoning its own precedent and reversing course in 2004.

Since its decision in San Manuel Indian Bingo, the NLRB has been aggressively asserting jurisdiction over tribal labor practices when it determines tribal government employers are acting in a "commercial" rather than a "governmental" capacity – an analysis it does not apply to state or local government employers.

TLSA builds upon a principle that has been amply demonstrated by Indian tribes across the country: when tribal sovereignty is respected and acknowledged, economic success follows. Enactment of S. 140 would prevent an unnecessary and unwarranted overreach by the NLRB into the affairs of tribal governments. By amending the NLRA to expressly treat tribal government employers and their enterprises and institutions the same as it treats state, local and federal government employers, S. 140 would provide corrective guidance to the NLRB and bring parity to tribal government employers across the nation.

The Coalition for Tribal Sovereignty strongly supports S. 140 and just as strongly urges you to support this important bill.

Sincerely,
